1. What aspects of the gathering seemed most interesting and useful to you?
 - People from other departments discussion what they are teaching and working on as projects in classes and with student orgs. The idea of a center for innovation & creativity separate from COBA that's available to all in the PSU community is even in the greater community
 - Sharing of ideas - very well facilitated
 - Defined what clusters would actually look like
 - Well Structured questions from the moderator
 - Discussions w/colleagues
 - Open and interactive exchange of ideas
 - Learning more about cluster
2. Do you plan to take any action as a result of attending this gathering?
 - Talk to someone in the group for ideas & help with two projects I'm working on.
 - Yes, I will continue to think of project ideas
 - Yes, I plan to present my notes to department and discuss
 - Go to other gatherings
 - Further thought on the ideas proposed
 - Yes, I plan to attend more sessions next month
3. What impact did your participation in this event have on your thinking?
 - Realizing that All students & staff need to be creative & innovative & need to learn how to implement ideas
 - Clearer understanding of focus of cluster/theme
 - Help me to evaluate my own strengths as they relate to clusters
 - Not much, concepts are still vague
 - Broadened perspective on "what could be"
 - That I might actually have an idea for a project
4. What recommendations do you have for the workshop facilitator/presenter or for CETL staff to help us improve such events in the future?
 - None
 - Nicely done!
 - More sessions - more emphasis that this is a campus initiative and not just for faculty
